Named Person Service in East Ayrshire

Getting it right for every child is the national approach in Scotland to support and improve the wellbeing of our children and young people by offering the right help at the right time from the right people.

The Named Person is a professional within Health and Educational Services who is responsible for promoting, supporting and safeguarding the wellbeing of children and young people.

Parents, carers, wider family members and the community provide most children with the help and support they require. Through Getting it right for every child all children and young people have access to their Named Person so that they can request extra support, advice or sign posting to other services when they need it.

Every child has a Named Person until they reach the age of 18 years old or until they leave school if over the age of 18.

The Named Person works with children, young people and their families to improve wellbeing and help each child achieve their potential. If the Named Person requires to share information to achieve this they will ask for consent from the young person or a child's parents unless there are child protection concerns.

There is no obligation to accept the offer of advice or support from the Named Person. The views of all those involved will be considered and recorded.
